Social Credit Meeting Hears J. H. Blackmore

About 200 people gathered in the High School Auditorium on Monday night last to listen to John H. Blackmore, M. P., and leader of the Social Credit party in the Federal House. Alvin W. Jones, local president was in the Chair. The meeting opened with the singing of "O Canada."

Mr. Blackmore's speech was on the Social Credit theory that the present system of currency was a means of facilitating the exchange of goods and services, but that because of its control by the banks, the amount of it was too limited to satisfy the needs of the people. Under Social credit, the amount of each issue would be increased, and if currency were not used, then the speaker argued that exchange tickets would serve just as well, any medium that would permit its holder to exchange it or exchange what he had, for what he needed. He gave it as his opinion that this was all that was needed to put every working man back to work, every factory back into operation, every saw mill and every coal mine to work, because the demand existed if the people had the means wherewith to get these things. Answering the possible question of inflation, Mr. Blackmore stated that so long as there were goods and services sufficient to meet the demands of those who wanted to buy that there would be no inflation. Inflation and depreciation of values occurred when the demands for goods and services out run the supply of these things when people had money that could not be exchanged for the things they wanted, then we had inflation, and this was exactly what happened in Germany after the close of the war.

He urged his listeners to press boldly forward. Social Credit was the answer to the problems, the eyes of the world were upon Alberta and time would prove the truth of these things. If reason and common sense can prevail, then we will have a bloodless reformation, but if not, then there will be another story to tell, because our children and children's children are entitled to their share of the world's wealth and we should see that they have it. Referring to the distribution in rates on freight he argued that united effort on the part of the western provinces could accomplish much toward an adjustment of these matters, and also of the tariff, but working alone and individually very little could be accomplished.

The singing of the national anthem brought the meeting to a close. The crowd gave the speaker a very attentive and orderly hearing and had no questions to ask when a question period was announced.

ALBERTA AGRICULTURAL REPORT NO. 5

Issued by the Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, July 12th, 1937

Crop conditions generally have shown improvement, although reports from the north-western section of crop district one, all of district thirteen, most of fourteen and a large portion of sixteen indicates that general rains are needed. Further information in the crop report issued by the Department of Agriculture for July 12th under the direction of Hon. D. B. Mullen, Minister of Agriculture suggests that a large portion of the drought area has excellent stands of wheat and that the coarse grains are making rapid growth with early sown fields of oats in the stubble.

The weather has been generally favorable for rapid growth following a general rain over the province. Many crop districts also report heavy showers which covered wide areas. These general rains were very beneficial since heavily stubbed crops require an abundance of moisture.

The northern portion of the province reports many fields as patchy. This may be due to poor moisture conditions during germination or damage from insects.

Grasshoppers are flying in some districts while other areas report eggs are just hatching. The Department is still supplying poison bait in an effort to have as many grasshoppers destroyed as possible before the egg laying period. Fieldmen in charge of the hopper campaign report excellent control with poisoned bait.

Cut-worms are now reported in the pupa or chrysalis stage of development. Much less damage can now be expected.

Farmers are now cutting first crops of alfalfa and tame hay. The heavy rains have spoiled some early cuttings. The crop districts where irrigation is practiced reports exceptional stands of forage crops. Native grasses are being harvested with good yields. A large acreage of forage crop has been seeded since the general rain.

Most crop districts report pastures maintaining good growth particularly in the areas where the heaviest rains have fallen. One crop reported in the drought area advises moisture in virgin soil to have penetrated four to eight inches, and in cultivated land where crops are growing to have reached a depth of two to five feet.

Live Stock — Ranch men report cattle making rapid gain on the excellent pastures and that the calf crop is heavier than average. Sheepmen suffer than normal and that early frost that the wool crop is heavy spring lambs will soon be marketed.

Poultry — Poultry and spring chickens are finding a ready market with buyers demanding a good price depending on quality and local markets. Eggs are higher in price and the market is reported steady.

Dairying — Many crop reports indicate that production is on the increase. Two or more factors may be influencing this production, namely a higher price level for better grades of cream and improved pasture.

The local Jimmie Allen Club members are almost breathlessly awaiting the arrival of the local B. A. Station of the wings, which identifies them as members of the Club.

For the present only ice cream and cold drinks will be handled though other lines may be added in the fall and winter.

SEARLE PRECIPITATION REPORT NO. 7.

(Compiled from 182 rain gauge reports.)

The rainfall situation for Western Canada has improved, on the average, by almost 10 percent during the last week, a most unusual betterment to occur in one week.

Taking into account the precipitation that occurred last autumn during the months of August, Sept. and October, and the rains which have fallen this year from April 1st to July 9th, inclusive, and weighting for wheat acreage, the records reveal that the moisture situation for the three Prairie Provinces, as a unit, on July 9th, was 94 percent of normal as compared with 86 percent three weeks ago and 65 percent on July 9th a year ago.

The moisture condition for Alberta, on July 9th, was 96 percent of normal, as compared with 90 percent last week, and 90 percent the week before.

For Saskatchewan, on July 9 the condition was 94 percent of normal, as compared with 85 percent for the week before and 84 percent for the week before that.

For Manitoba, on July 9th, the condition was 89 percent of normal, as compared with 79 percent for the week before, and 85 percent for the week before that.

The regular Rotary meeting Monday night was addressed by Miss Charlotte Knight, home for a visit from her work in New York City. Miss Knight is connected with the International Lecture Bureau. She told of her work in booking and directing the publicity of such famous speakers as Thomas Mann, Boake Carter and others, and explained some of the interesting and unexpected acquaintance and contacts that her work made. Also the great field of action in paper and radio that is used in this work. Her talk was most interesting.

PUBLIC BUSINESS EVERYONE'S BUSINESS

"You've probably heard some one who boasted that they 'always minded their own business' and you've probably seen people to busy minding their own business that they never had time to take an active interest in community affairs unless they had a personal axe to grind says the Chauvin Chronicle.

What a wonderful progressive community. Main right would be if everyone of its citizens was like that.

Just think of the number of things that have been accomplished to improve and elevate the social and business life of your district, that have made your work and life more pleasant and profitable. And of the things, think of the number that have been done by those who have been willing to take their noses away from the grindstone for a while and devote that amount of time to public service.

About us we can see the activities for the young people, events for the edification and amusement of both young and old, churches, schools, camps, celebrations and so forth... all made possible only by the devoted labors of those who are willing to give part of their time in a public cause. And there is nothing more pleasant than some such work.

You'll remember with pleasure the time spent working in good company in some public cause long after you've forgotten the business of work connected with it. You'll be refreshed and encouraged; you'll find a new enthusiasm in life.

The Editor has been present recently at several meetings, where a half-dozen business and professional men sat for hours, studying problems absolutely outside their province as such, in order that their ultimate goal—full success—should be reached in their project; and we venture to say that "greater than fine gold" has been had in the knowledge that the end sought was attained to the "exceeding full." Co-operation, community spirit and dogged determination are all that we need, and "faith will still remove mountains."

The extreme thanks of our Town Council to these gentlemen was indeed a pleasant gesture, expressing as it did the happy relations existing and the pleasant time given by such efforts on behalf of the whole of our community.

Let us have more of such; they're good for the building up of both town and country.

NEWS NOTES

(Crowded out of last issue)

Mr. and Mrs. Rayo Woolf left on their holidays Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Anderson and children were Magrath visitors Monday.

Jas. E. Meeks and son have moved into the Ben Kenney home on 1st east.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ross Salmon was moved to Picture Butte last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roi Stone spent the first part of the week at the Calgary Stampede.

Clifford Dahl has the excavating done for his new home which will be erected between the LeRoy Anderson place and Arthur Dahl home.

Mr. Wells, local manager of the Bank of Montreal is holidaying at present, and with his family is spending the week at Waterton Park. They spend a few days at Calgary last week.

Jim Meeks was wondering the first part of the week whether he would be able to remain away from the Calgary Stampede this year. We are afraid Jim might weaken and take in the show as a part of his summer vacation.

On the first leg of a round the world flight, Howard Hughes New York sportsman flew from New York to Paris in 16½ hrs. cutting in two the time that Lindbergh made in his solo flight in 1927.

A new and heavier culvert was put in this week on the road to the factory leading past the elevators. There is a tremendous traffic over this road in the fall and larger timbered culvert was deemed essential to take care of it.

Clarke Lund, first; Herman Linder, second; Doug Bruce, Black Diamond and Urban Dean Halkirk, tied for third was the way the finalists stacked up at the Medicine Hat Stampede which closed Saturday night. Andy Lund was second in decorating and Bud Williams was third in the Wild Cow milking event.

Elders Earl Harker and Earl Tanner were speakers at the Raymond First Ward Sunday evening last when the Stake Missionaries furnished the program. The crowd was small due to the large number attending Conference and assisting with the singing in Conference at Cardston.

The Temple will close on Friday, July 29th, and will remain closed until the second week in September, so that this ward day may be the last opportunity many people will have to attend the Temple in this year's work. Pres. Wood reported in the Alberta Stake Conference last Sunday that June was the biggest month for ordinance work the Alberta Temple had ever had.

Two Pamphlets "The Road to Recovery," an address by John I. McFarland, and "Suggestions to Alberta Citizens," the latter a report on the meeting of the Unity Council in Edmonton, June 23-24, have been published. Copies are available without charge, and those desiring these pamphlets are asked to write: The Unity Council of Alberta, 432 Loughheed Building, Calgary.

Bowing to the extremely heavy growth and the danger of lodging this year's wheat crop it begins to look as though binders would be pressed into service to do most of the cutting.

The combine require a very ripe grain, and a straw that is not too heavy or rank. With the heavy growth, uneven ripening is likely, so binders will be used to cut the fields as the spots ripen.

N. L. Head of Cardston was a Raymond visitor Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Pierson are holidaying at present, having started the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg Cooper and family were Cardston and Waterton Park visitors last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Redd were Cardston visitors at the Temple on Wednesday.

Alec Easton and Austin Elder moved the light pole in front of the new Brewerton block to the west corner leaving the space in front of the building

Gerald Melchin is visiting with his brother Howard and family here. He came from Kitchener Ontario with his aunt and uncle who were on their holidays and who have returned. Gerry says he will probably stay to attend school the coming year. He reports the family as well and enjoying themselves in the east.

The new airport just this side of Lethbridge is nearly ready for use now, and according to reports daily mail schedules may be commenced August 1st between Vancouver and Winnipeg. This will make communication by mail possible between Lethbridge and Winnipeg or Vancouver in two days, and about three days or possibly four some times for Raymond people.

This Wednesday and Thursday Cardston was the mecca of the hard-riding waddies of those who love Stampede events, the saddle and spur, and of The Committees, under Dr. Christie, with Cardston's A1 booster, J. Y. Card, as General Secretary, have put a lot of work into the advertising and publicizing of this show, and a good crowd is looked for both days. No doubt quite a number of Raymond people will go there to see the show and renew acquaintances.

TEETHING

During the years when the baby teeth are coming through the gums and the child is said to be teething, it is a common belief that any one of the numerous ills from which the young child may suffer can be fairly put down as being due to teething. If a rash develops, it is called a teething rash. The young mother is told that the cold in the head the crying, the restlessness, the upset stomach are all due to teething, and that there is no reason for her thinking anything else. In some cases this simple explanation has led to serious results. We try to prevent diarrhoeas in children by proper feeding, but, if the condition does occur, it is known by those who have the responsibility of caring for such cases, that prompt treatment, right at the start, is needed, and that delay in securing proper treatment early exposes the child's life to danger. The delay which occurs in seeking treatment is very often explained by the mother on the grounds that she thought, as she had been told by friends, that attacks of diarrhoea were to be expected as a result of teething, and that the condition would clear up, of itself, when the tooth was cut.

Teething is a normal event, and most babies go through the period in an easy manner and with so little evidence of what is happening that the parent is surprised on seeing the white point which is baby's first tooth. Some children do suffer evident pain, & such children are apt to be fretful and to suffer from broken sleep, with the result that they are not up to their usual standard of fitness.

The point which we wish to make is simply this—it is safe to assume that teething is responsible for whatever happens to a child during the teething period. Conditions that arise during the teething period are to be dealt with properly, and are not to be considered as being of no particular importance. A realization of this will save many infants from neglect through misunderstanding of the actual facts.

EXPERIMENTAL LIVING LETTER

WEEKLY LETTER

Do you Suffer Losses in Shipping Live Stock
In shipping live stock it is im portant to the shipper, as well as to the buyer, that animals arrive at the market in the best possible condition. Losses due to high shrinkage, injuries, and deaths are considered by some people to be unavoidable consequences of shipping. However if reasonable precautions are taken, the animals that go down the unloading chute, will bear a close resemblance to those that were loaded, even though the journey be a long one.

Preparatory to shipping it is advisable to use feeds that are of a non-laxative nature. For example, high quality timothy or prairie hay have been found to be very satisfactory for cattle. Animals should be allowed to consume their normal fill of water and roughage right up un practice of trying to obtain an abnormally large fill is likely to defeat its purpose as digestive troubles frequently follow, resulting in loss of weight.

The freight rate on grade and commercial animals is charged on a per hundred weight basis on a stated minimum for each class of stock. While underloading in uneconomical, overloading may be disastrous, especially in extremely hot or in stormy weather. The approximate numbers per standard stock car for different classes of stock may be somewhat as follows: 25 head of fat cattle at 1000 pounds, 105 lambs at 85 pounds and 70 to 85 hogs at 200 pounds. Death in transit may be due to sickness but more common causes are overcrowding and in the case of hogs over heating. In hot weather it is desirable to reduce the number of hogs per car and damp sand should be used to bed the car.

Common causes for shipping losses are bruising due to horns rough handling and improper fitting of ears. When a car of mixed stock is shipped, proper partitions should always be used. All commercial cattle should be dehorned and care should be taken at all times in loading and handling.

Shrinkage in transit varies widely and may be due to a variety of causes. The net shrinkage, which is based on "fed and watered" weights, as compared to gross shrinkage or "weight off cars" is most commonly used. Hogs will show a net shrinkage of about 3 percent after a journey of 24 to 36 hours, while lambs may show a net shrinkage of from 4 percent to as high as 8 percent for the same period as lambs do not respond well to feeding at the market. Cattle are subject to very wide variations. Old, thin and grass-fattened cattle shrink more than the average, while well finished grain fed cattle will usually run from 3 percent to 5 percent for a 24 to 36 hour journey. With all classes of live stock a proportionately higher shrink occurs during the first 24 hours than during travelling.

Our Edmonton Letter

Edmonton, July 19—Government plans for the impending new issue of scrip, the withering reception which cabinet ministers met in public meetings in the province, and the rejection by the Privy Council in London of the Alberta Bank taxation bill, all vied for chief attention in political Alberta last week.

The Bank Taxation bill, which like the Bank Licensing Bill and the Press bill was passed by the house last fall but failed to get royal assent and then was declared illegal by the Supreme Court of Canada, lasted just one week longer in its Privy Council appeal than had the other two. It sought to impose a fresh tax of $2,200,000 a year on the bank branches operating in Alberta, an average of close to $12,000 for each branch. And virtually all of them have been losing money during the past 10 years and already pay provincial taxes totalling about $310,000 to the Alberta government.

The empire's highest court did not issue publicly, immediately, its reasons for declaring the bank taxation bill invalid. But Lord Atkin said that the reasons were being communicated to the provincial government. So far there has been no sign that the government has received a statement of reasons.

The reaction of the cabinet and of the Social Credit board as a surprise to political observers in Edmonton, however. Premier Aberhart said that the court's decision made "no difference whatever to the government's plans on program for the future." This despite the earlier claim by the government that the taxation bill, along with the bank licensing bill and the press bill, were integral parts of the "social credit" plan.

So another phase of the Aberhart government's sham-battle words and facts was passed with heavy expenses for legal fees, and Alberta moved toward the next phase: the new experiment with scrip.

The government is not going to call it scrip this time because it didn't leave a very satisfactory feeling in the province the last time, two years ago. This time it is going to be called "tax remission slips," and according to Social Crediters who have had something to say about it so far it is going to be handed out to men who work on roads. But, according to the same M. L. A.'s it is going only to men who work for municipal districts to pay off their municipal taxes. Therefore, the province will be handing over its new scrip in payment for municipal work.

Establishment in various contingencies of branches of the provincial treasury department is being envisioned. Those branches may be called "credit houses" in view of the fact that the original idea of an Aberhart credit house seems to have been shelved. It is believed in informed quarters that the government is going to attempt to combine those branches with the "credit unions" which were authorized under an act passed at the last session, although there is no provision in the Credit Unions act to permit the unions to handle anything other than real money—money that, according to the act, may be deposited in a chartered bank or other institution approved of the supervisor. And scrip cannot be accepted by a bank.

Even in the plans for credit unions, however, the government and the "social credit" board have disregarded expert advice and the knowledge of experience by laying down rules and supplying executive for such nations.

Roy F. Bergensen, outstanding organizer and supporter of credit unions and the most authoritative writer on their operation, declared in his latest book: "It is a basic principle that the credit union cannot be superimposed. Organized within a group of employees, it must be operated by the employees for the employees." But under Alberta's plans it will be operated by the government, and if the credit unions are tied up with the new scrip idea, they will be operated for the benefit of the government.

Provincial Treasurer Solon E. Low, and Social Credit board member A. J. Hooke were howled down and laughed at when they tried to deliver their versions of the Social Credit record last Friday night at Red Deer. It was a Social Credit meeting called by the Social Credit constituency executive, and there were 1,200 persons present. Mr. Low said, as he left the platform, that it was no use casting his pearls before "swine" he hastened to apologize when one farmer went up and asked him what he meant. The next day Mr. Low, safely back in Edmonton, said that there were only about 20 people in the meeting who interrupted him or were opposed to him. An organizer for the "Unity league" had organized the heckling, he said, the interrupted were "rowdies who had been plied with liquor" before the meeting. Asked whether he really believed that only 20 people could prevent him from speaking if 1,200 wanted to hear him, Mr. Low replied "certainly." In answer to Mr. Low, the Unity Council member for Red Deer, J. Arnott, showed the Unity league members had deliberately remained away from the meeting and that they had no part in it.

The opposition to Low and Hooke, it was shown, was general in all parts of the hall and included business men and farmers, but there was no organized demonstration whatever.

One of the chief complaints of the crowd was the absence of Premier Aberhart, who had been advertised as the speaker. He did not show up, and Mr. Low admitted that he had passed through Red Deer earlier in the day. It also was admitted that although the premier gave a sore throat as the cause of his absence, he was scheduled to speak Sunday at Calgary—but over the air where he could not be asked questions. Just a week before, he and Hon. N. E.

WILL CURB SPEED ALBERTA BUSES

Action to curb speed of passenger buses operating on Alberta highways has been taken by the Alberta Motor Association.

As a result of complaints voiced at a recent meeting of provincial directors of the A. M. A., the matter is to be brought to the attention of the highway traffic board.

One director drew attention to busses travelling at 50 and 60 miles per hour, showering ears with gravel as a result, while in dry weather these speeding vehicles created so much dust that driving visibility was affected for some time after the bus had passed.

During the discussion it was suggested that some bus drivers kept entirely to close to the centre of the highway, causing other motorists to be crowded off the road unnecessarily.

Directors agreed that in the interests of safe driving conditions something would have to be done to check the bus driver whose tendencies were those of the "road hog." While it was recognized that all bus drivers were not guilty of such practices, some companies have instructed their drivers to show every possible courtesy on the highway, it was felt that prompt action was warranted to a void complaints and bring about safer conditions for motorists.

Les Palmer's new addition to his house is shingled now and finishing is going on inside.

If world conditions remain at all favorable, the C. P. R. will likely order five new ocean liners within the next three years for their Atlantic and Pacific routes, the cost of the proposed new ships will be $55,000,000,000.

Tanner had been howled down and shouted from the platform at Okotoks.

ALFALFA INCREASES PRODUCTION

(Experimental Farms News)

The alfalfa plant is remarkable for its ability to increase production along more lines than one. As a soil building crop it has few rivals. Its deep rooting characteristics enables it to make use of plant food reserves in the sub-soil, and being a legume, it enriches the soil with nitrogen through the action of nitrifying bacteria of which it is a host. This alfalfa in the rotation improves the fertility of the soil, with resulting increases in the production of other crops. The deep rooting habit also enables this crop to grow vigorously and produce freely in spite of prolonged periods of dry weather.

The nutritious quality of alfalfa hay is well known and is highly prized as a means of increasing production with all kinds of livestock. In addition, it is one of the most productive of hay crops. In those parts of the country which enjoy a long enough growing period, the crop can be cut two and three times a season, producing large ton-nages per acre, and thus increases practised reports exceptional production is obtained over plants that can be cut but once.

Even in the more northerly parts where the season is short and only one cutting can be made, states E. T. Goring, Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ont., large yields are obtained. For instance in North-ern Ontario, where it is not yet considered advisable to sow this crop alone, the addition of a few pounds per acre of alfalfa to the usual hay mixture, has been found very worthwhile. In comparative trials, at the Dominion Experimental Station at Kapus-kasing, the addition of five lbs. of alfalfa to the ordinary mixture of timothy, red clover and alsike, resulted in the following increases: first year meadow 67 per cent; second year meadow 95 per cent and third year meadow 83 per cent over the ordinary hay mixture.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Zobell the first of the week. Mother and son are doing fine and Bill hasn't got the smile off his face yet.

Louise Fazenda, of movie fame, and her husband, Hal Wallis, official of Warner Brothers, are seen here on the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Canada" just before sailing to Honolulu for a holiday. They were accompanied by their five-year-old son, Hal Junior, who has never yet faced a camera, either professional or amateur.

One Call That Week

On his week-end call recently a commercial traveller was about to receive a small order, when he started searching thru his pockets.

"What have you lost?" asked the customer.

"Pencil," replied the traveller still searching. "Can't think where I left it. I know I had it on Monday."

Tactless

The minister's wife, while calling on a member of the congregation, mentioned, with excusable pride, that her daughter had won the prize in a music recital.

Her listener at once showed her fellow feeling.

"I can quite understand your pride," she said. "I well remember how pleased I was when our pig took first prize at the agricultural show."
